

itelligence to be SAP consultancy house for Brevillier-Urban Schreibwarenfabrik

Vienna/Bielefeld, November 30, 2004 – The Austrian market leader for crayons and writing pencils, Brevillier-Urban Schreibwarenfabrik, has chosen itelligence as its SAP consultancy house. In Austria, the name of the long-established company Brevillier-Urban is primarily associated with its strong brand JOLLY, with product innovations and its successful marketing of writing, painting and drawing products for specific target groups. Since 1983, Brevillier-Urban Schreibwarenfabrik has been part of the Kirchdorfer Group, which includes the itelligence customer, MABA Fertigteileindustrie GmbH.

At the Brevillier-Urban Schreibwarenfabrik, itelligence consultants will introduce it.engine, the itelligence industry solution based on mySAP All-in-One, in several stages, phasing out the legacy system. In 2004, the Finance and Controlling areas were migrated to the SAP system, accompanied by comprehensive prototyping for a company-wide introduction of it.engine. In 2005, Brevillier-Urban will then migrate its entire Logistics area, including Production, Distribution and Warehousing to it.engine. And in a further step, the Austrian company is planning to roll out its SAP company software at its plant in Bulgaria in 2007.

The objective of introducing it.engine at Brevillier-Urban is a uniform ERP system across the company, integrated into the IT landscape of the parent company without any media transfer problems or standalone solutions.

Erich Frommwald, Managing Director of Brevillier-Urban Schreibwarenfabrik explains, "With it.engine we can map our entire business processes in an SAP environment, thereby cutting costs. In the longer term, SAP allows a 360° panorama view of our order situation, production utilization and financial resources across all companies in the Kirchdorfer Group."
